What we do:

BikeWalkLee is a community coalition raising public awareness and advocating for complete streets in Lee County — streets that are designed, built, operated and maintained for safe and convenient travel for all users: pedestrians, bicyclists, motorists and transit riders of all ages and abilities. We will achieve this by:

- Building coalitions and seeking consensus: Working with local, regional and national partners who support our goals; asking citizens and the people who use our streets how to make them better; and working with the media and community to increase awareness.

- Government interaction: Working with government officials and staff to help create a culture of planning that works to complete Lee County's streets so all users of our transportation networks are considered on the front end of any project or improvement.

- Analysis and action: Testifying at public meetings to raise awareness of complete streets; analyzing data and legislation to encourage infrastructure enhancements and to identify glaring gaps; and finding opportunities to enhance Lee County’s evolution into a model complete streets community.
